iPURPOSE × UNIVERSITY OF GHANA

Extending Career Support Between Counselling Touchpoints

An 8-week discovery pilot with up to 40 students, connecting self-discovery, AI-guided decision support and verified local pathways.

Proposed: up to 40 students

One existing UG cohort

8 weeks

Prepared for the University of Ghana Careers and Counselling Directorate

What is iPurpose?

iPurpose helps emerging leaders move from uncertainty to clarity, informed decisions and practical next steps.

Soul → Systems → AI

Soul

Understand your values, strengths, direction and what matters.

Systems

Turn that understanding into structure: options, pathways, plans and next steps.

AI

Navigate information and possibilities with practical support. AI supports judgment; it does not replace it.

WHO BUILT IT

Renita Hamilton, MPS — Founder & CEO

Educator, entrepreneur and social-impact leader with more than two decades of experience spanning education, nonprofit leadership, philanthropy, strategic development, consulting and business ownership. A certified general-education teacher and multi-industry entrepreneur, she created iPurpose at the intersection of human development, practical systems and responsible AI. Her experience also includes public leadership, bringing a systems-level understanding of communities, institutions and opportunity.

Why the University of Ghana. Why now.

The need is clear, and UG is already investing in career education.

36.9%

of Ghana's projected population is age 15–35.

21.9%

average unemployment among people age 15–35 in the first three quarters of 2025.

2026–2028

UG is already investing in career education, startup support, advisory capacity and African and international collaboration.

The opening for iPurpose is not more career information. It is helping students translate guidance into decisions and next steps between counselling touchpoints.

Identity + Decisions + Local pathways + Follow-through

UG counsellors stay at the center

iPurpose extends reflection, decision support and follow-through between institutional touchpoints.

CLARITY

What is happening in my life?

PURPOSE

What strengths, interests and patterns are emerging?

COMPASS

What should I explore or do next?

OPPORTUNITY

Which verified Ghana pathways fit?

ACTION

What did I do, and what comes next?

UG counsellors remain the human center. iPurpose supports students between sessions and points them back to UG services whenever guidance goes beyond decision support.

Proposed 8-week pilot: up to 40 UG students

Small enough to learn quickly. Structured enough to produce useful insight.

One existing UG cohort: up to 40

Students already in a UG career, entrepreneurship or transition programme, selected with the Directorate. The cohort can start smaller if the Directorate prefers.

Counsellors stay central

UG counsellors help set referral and escalation boundaries and join a midpoint and closeout review.

Weekly learning loop

Usage patterns, short check-ins and selected conversations show where guidance, language or local context needs adjustment.

What UG receives, and the role we ask of UG

A defined institutional role with limited operational burden.

WHAT UG RECEIVES

Participant access

Full pilot access to the iPurpose experience for the agreed cohort.

Pilot insights

Aggregated engagement and decision patterns showing how students move from reflection to action.

Local pathway layer

Curated, verified Ghana pathways, built with UG validation of local sources.

Closeout report

Outcomes, lessons and recommendations, including whether to continue.

THE ROLE WE WOULD ASK OF UG

1. Identify one liaison
2. Help select and recruit the cohort
3. Validate local opportunity sources
4. Advise on referral and escalation boundaries
5. Join a midpoint and closeout review

Not requested: funding, procurement, exclusivity, endorsement, or any commitment beyond the pilot.

Guardrails: counsellors, privacy and trust

The pilot must be useful without blurring the line between AI guidance and professional services.

Decision support, not counselling iPurpose is not a mental-health service, diagnostic tool, or replacement for UG counselling or career services.

Referral to UG counsellors

Defined referral and escalation paths point students to UG services when guidance goes beyond decision support.

Verified local opportunities

Verified sources take priority over model memory for Ghana-specific programmes; uncertain information is clearly labeled.

Adult students only

The first pilot is limited to students age 18+, avoiding additional minor-consent and safeguarding complexity.

Data minimization and consent

Collect only what the experience and evaluation need; clearly state purpose, retention and deletion choices.

Aggregated reporting

UG receives cohort-level findings. Data protection, consent and controller responsibilities are confirmed before recruitment.

How we would learn, and the next step

Downloads are not the goal. Progress from uncertainty toward action is.

Activation

% completing onboarding

Self-discovery

Clarity / Purpose completion

Compass use

Return visits and conversations

Retention

Week 2 / 4 / 8 return

Decisions

Participant-reported decisions

Added in the pilot

Verified pathway clicks and participant-reported actions

Core questions, asked at entry and closeout: "How clear are you about what you should do next?" · "What next step have you decided on or taken?"

Would the Directorate be open to a 30-minute conversation about piloting iPurpose with up to 40 students alongside an existing UG programme?

No long-term commitment.
